For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn. — "I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me. I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman. I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — MRS. JOHN G. MOLDAN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs. Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat you in the strictest confidence. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

ROGERS' MONEY AIDED NEGRO EDUCATION

Standard Oil Magnate Helped Support Scores of Schools in the South

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON WAS MAGNATE'S ALMONER

Sage of Tuskegee Tells of Benefactions Which Capitalist Quietly Distributed

NEW YORK, May 21 — Booker T. Washington has revealed the fact that for many years H. H. Rogers aided in the support of scores of schools in the South. The standard oil official asked Washington to act as his almoner and insisted that his benefactions be kept secret. In giving an account of this unknown phase of Rogers' activities, Washington said:

"The first time I ever met Mr. Rogers was in this manner. About fifteen years ago a large meeting was held in Madison Square Garden, concert hall, to obtain funds for the Tuskegee Institute. Mr. Rogers attended the meeting but came late and the audience was crowded. He could not get in. He stood in the back part of the hall however, and listened to the speaking. The next morning I received a telegram from him, asking me to call at his office. When I entered he remarked that he had been present at the meeting, that he had passed by the Tuskegee Institute, and that he had been thinking of it. He wanted to 'ship in' something. He handed me a ten dollar bill for the Tuskegee Institute. This he imposed only one condition, that the gift should be mentioned to no one. I cannot now recall the number of times that he has helped us, but in doing so he always insisted that his name be never used. He seemed to enjoy making gifts in currency."

Boosters Arrange to Receive 10,000 Visitors During Two Days of Festival

SAN LEANDRO, May 21 — San Leandro is preparing to put on her gala attire for the cherry festival which will be held on June 4 and 5 under the supervision of the Altamira club and the carnival committee. The town will take on a festive appearance and will be replete with flags, lanterns and cherries. Unlimited quantities of the luscious fruit will be on hand and every visitor will be liberally supplied. On June 4 and 5 the street will be lined on both sides with booths and concessions, and will be thronged with fair-minded multitudes. Preparations have been made by the women's club to banquet a vast number on the 24th day. At least 10,000 it is figured will throng the streets. San Leandro has never been so advertised so widely as she has been for this festival, which will be the event of her year.

MRS. ANNIS NOW VAUDEVILLE STAR

Widow of Man Whom Captain Hains Slew Makes Debut on Stage

NEW YORK, May 21 — The debut on the vaudeville stage of Mrs. William E. Annis, widow of the man who was slain by Captain Peter C. Hains Jr., was applauded last night in a theater at Rockaway Beach. She did a piano sketch with a singing and dancing team of men and played as a request number "I'm a Soldier," which she announced was the favorite of her husband. On instant hit by her audience. Mrs. Annis appeared before the curtain at 10 o'clock. The death of her husband, announced that it was necessary for her to come to New York for herself and her children and that she felt that the stage afforded her a better opportunity than any other. Her husband, a well-known actor, had been killed in a duel with a man named Hains. The incident had caused a great deal of excitement in the city. Mrs. Annis's performance was a success and she was well received by the audience.

"The Great Divide" Makes First Appearance in Stock With Bishop's Players

And the presentation promises to be a notable one in other respects. As everyone who has seen or has heard about the play knows, its second act takes place on that desert and volcanic island, the Mojave desert, and it is on this scene alone that the entire stage force of the Liberty have been at work for nearly a week past. The enormous revolving stage, with which the theater is equipped, makes it possible to produce with a scene of this character that are impossible on the ordinary stage, and it is promised that this scene will surpass all previous ones in the history of the theater.

Other two settings as well, are out of the ordinary and are receiving the careful attention. They show the interior of a Western cabin and the home of Ruth Jordan in the distant corners of the desert, and both will be masterpieces of stagecraft.

Landers Stevens has the role of Stephen Gheft, which was originated by Henry Miller, and Helen Holmes that of Ruth Jordan, in which Margaret Anglin first appeared. The two characters are so splendidly suited to the parts their performances should be far above the average. The supporting cast includes George Webster, Henry Shumpr, James Keane, Elmer Booth, Lillian Whitely and George Cooper, have the more important parts. The production is so well designed that there will be no weak spots in the cast.

In this production of "The Great Divide," the Liberty has a new schedule of prices goes in effect. During the summer months, the entire lower floor will be placed at 25 cents and the dress circle at 50 cents. The upper floor will be placed at 100 cents for the first three weeks. "The Great Divide" will continue through out the week with the usual matinee, after which comes "Old Kent Road" and "The Liberty" which includes the regular appearances at the Liberty.

Odd Pieces at Less Than Auction Prices

Dean & Humphrey Company start tomorrow one of the greatest bargain sales of furniture ever held in Alameda county. For an entire year they have been storing in their warehouses every odd piece of furniture they came across. For instance, if a woman bought a bedroom set and did not want the bureau was sent to the warehouse as an "odd piece." Furthermore, odd lots have been bought up from time to time from manufacturers and sold at a loss. The result has been that they have had a large stock of odd goods and thousands of dollars worth of odd goods have accumulated. These are the goods now upon our floors. We give a few prices simply as an idea of the thousands of reductions. THE DOORS SWING OPEN AT 8:30 TOMORROW MORNING. BE THERE EARLY.

HEART-TRIBUNE'S PAGE FOR WOMEN-LOVE LETTERS, TRUE, SINCERE, HOT AIR AND MUSHY, SUBMITTED IN PENNSYLVANIA CONTEST

Latest Method of Interesting Club Members and Having Sport That Would Educate

MAHANOCY CITY, Pa.—At the recent Mahanoy City Club, held on Thursday last, one of the numbers on the program offered a letter-club and enjoyment than the "love-letter" competition for a prize of $5. Fifteen contestants poured their souls into love epistles, which the adjudicator, the Rev. T. C. Edwards, of Kingston, Pa., waded through and described as of white variety, embracing the true, sincere, hot air, mushy and mushy.

Some bright, breezy epistles were submitted to the adjudicator. In those which were awarded prizes, some of the gems are:

"In spite of the warnings of ages that 'bees have stings,' we believe their hives are sweet."

"I say as Adam did, 'Eve is the only girl for me.'"

"How joyous the bonds of this magic passion which bequeals us as a fairy spirit, from a life to one who will be constant, though Eden's bowers become a wilderness."

"I feel that 'inward, outward, inexpressible all-ness' which the gods have monopolized."

The prize was divided between D. H. Morgan of this city, and Mrs. D. I. Evans, of Shannock. Mr. Morgan is one of the handsome young clerics of the town, a former teacher in the public schools here, now a reporter on the Record, a local daily paper. Mrs. Evans is the wife of the Rev. D. I. Evans, pastor of the Baptist church of Shannock.

The prize-winning epistles were the first being that of Mrs. Evans.

Some one has said "the next best thing to speaking to a person is to write," and as the former is denied me I gladly avail myself of the "next best" to assure my happiness in our separation is ever to find in my thoughts, the object of all my affection, and the sweetness of the present is its dreams of future brightness, for in spite of the warning of ages that "bees have stings," we believe their hives are sweet, and I say as Adam did, "Eve is the only girl for me." Yet I have numerous reasons for envying that ancestor of ours. He had no rivals when wooing the lady he loved. I must excuse myself, love, if I lay myself open to rebuke for that sentence, though, by declaring there is no more deep-heated love without a dose of selfishness in it, my sweet one, it is pleasant to think there is one who turns the most exquisite stings of my heart and to know she would not be happy without me.

How joyous the bonds of this magic passion, which bequeals us as a fairy spirit from a life to one who will be constant, though Eden's bowers become a wilderness.

I visit the old haunts, love, left sweet by raptures of past hours and desolate breaths in this balmy weather. "Oh, that we two were Maying!" And do these sentiments find response in your heart, Joan? Write soon and tell me so, dearie, for my heart is hungry to hear. Then I will patiently (?) await the arrival of the delightful moment of hanging again to taste the honey of happiness from love's blossoms. I trust you will accept these words with the sincerity they are uttered, and believe, dearest, my love will ever be a watchful light, with a flame undimmed through the darkest night.

I am and ever will be your own DARBY.

To the Dearest Little Girl

In All This World,

My Darling, Nancy.

I awoke early this beautiful spring morning after a pleasant night's repose and enjoyed a walk along the beach, with my thoughts ever of you. The sun, with its golden rays, glistened in the silvery spray, forming myriads of sparkling gems. The waves were hushed to sleep. Gazing upon that tranquil tide, suddenly I noticed the shadow of clouds, clustered together like huge mountain peaks. The sun became obscured, the morn grew dark and the patter of raindrops, with the ominous roar of Old Ocean, drove us to my cottage.

I thought to how many does the morning of life, this period in which we are lulled to sleep in the fond dreams of love, seem bright. But, alas, it is not always sunshine.

Jovious matrimonial barks are launched from tranquil havens, with the smiling sun tracing his course across the azure space. There is not a billow on the great ocean before them. All is blissfulness and happiness unalloyed. There can be no pain on such a sea as this. The dip of the golden oar in the silvery tide is the single intimation to mar the perfect calmness.

When, lo! the sun, with his warm rays, sinks behind a dark cloud which has come up over the horizon. The darkness deepens, the lightnings flash, the thunders roll, the waves dash high, the bark is tempest-tossed, all is confusion, those who launched out on a calm sea, full of promise, gazing upon their hopes and prospects are swallowed up in the maelstrom of adversity and strife and are lost.

But to those who truly love, those who would die for each other, as you and I, no such storm can come. With serenity we'll voyage through life, unharmed and unhampered. Such a love as ours is not a temporary illusion, but a real, live, permanent affection, one which can not be annihilated by the whips and scorns of time, a mutual, personal love. Nancy, I can not tell you how I long to see you. At the sound of your name

Girl's "Holy Promise" Well Known Actress Who Sued at the Same Time for Divorce and Breach of Promise

ST. LOUIS.—Because Gertrude Wolff, aged twenty years, violated her agreement not to see her two children for a return to the family of the Rev. G. P. Schenck, pastor of a German church at Stolpe, Mo., the unusual and pathetic domestic conditions of that family have become public.

Gertrude has been a member of the Schenck family since she was thirteen and has borne two daughters, now aged six and four years. Her agreement transferred the custody of the children to Mrs. Schenck and bound her not to write to the family nor receive any letters from its members.

Because of the girl's presence, Mrs. Schenck refused to join her husband when he first went to Stolpe, two years ago. Recently, however, she decided to settle near her husband and the girl so that she could watch over them. Soon after her arrival, however, the conditions in the home became known to friends of Schenck and she was forced to sign the agreement. When she violated its terms, last week, the affair became public.

"I, the undersigned, Gertrude Wolff, promise, in the presence of the undersigned witnesses, Pastor Louis Schenck and Dr. A. Schenck, of St. Louis, on May 10 or not later than May 17, 1901, to leave for New York on a through train and take the first ship for Germany. The cost of a first-class ticket and $25 pocket money are to be given me by Dr. Schenck."

"I will not put my foot upon the soil of America again or return to the Schenck family."

"I will never write to the Schenck family or any of the members or accept any letters from them."

"Henceforth I will receive news of my two children, Maria and Lilli, from the undersigned witnesses, who shall be bound to supply me with the children's condition."

"I leave the children in the custody of the Schenck family and the witnesses hereto agree to look after their well-being."

"I give this holy promise of my own free will. I am to receive one copy and the other is to be given to Dr. Schenck."

"GERTRUDE WOLFF."

"Witnesses: 'Rev. Louis Schenck."

"Dr. A. Schenck."

"The girl is now at the home of the Rev. Mr. Sudmeyer, pastor of a German Evangelical Church at Hermann, Mo., and will remain there until some arrangement is made for her return to her parents. Her children are cared for by Mrs. Schenck, who has forgiven her husband and who mothers the little ones as though they were her own."

"The congregation of Schenck's church has not decided what action it will take in regard to retaining him."

MRS. GEORGE D. WIDENER.

NEW YORK.—Mrs. George D. Widener, wife of the Philadelphia millionaire, who has been abroad the greater part of the past year has just returned to this country.

Before her marriage she was Miss Eleanor Elkins, daughter of the late William L. Elkins. Mrs. Widener entertains very extensively in New York and Philadelphia as well as at Newport, where her husband several years ago purchased a summer home, one of the most delightful villas from the Bell estate.

Says Husband Tried to Scare Her To Death; Wants Divorce

NEW YORK.—Asserting that her husband tried to scare her to death, first by holding a revolver to her head and then by threatening her with a razor, Mrs. Edith Jane Hall applied in the Supreme Court yesterday for a divorce of $300 a month and counsel fees of $750 in a suit for divorce from Alexander Gordon Hall. He is president of Henry Hall's Sons' Co., manufacturers of fishing rods, and lives at Highland Mills, Orange county, N. Y.

Mrs. Hall alleged that Hall abandoned her a year ago, and since that time has been spending money on other women. He takes these companions to expensive restaurants and to theaters, she alleges, while she does not receive a penny from him.

Hall denies every charge his wife makes. He says that she left him without any reason, and when he pleaded with her to return she only scoffed at him. He says that her charges that he tried to scare her to death are absurd. The Hall's were married five years ago. In the summer they lived in their country residence at Highland Mills, and in the winter at their New York City home. Mrs. Hall says that two children were the result of her marriage, but that when Hall died her husband began to "scare" her.

"He often threatened to kill me," she said. "At one time I held a maul over my head and threatened to strike him with it. He said that if I did that he would sign over all his stock in the company to me, $8000 in the National Bank of Richmond and the rest in real estate. I said that I would not now reveal the value of the securities he obtained from me in this manner because of the excitement of the moment."

Mrs. Hall said she did not know the extent of her husband's wealth, but she gave facts from which she thought the Court could estimate his income. She said he owned one summer home in Highland Mills, another in Cromwell

Suffragists Are Getting Together Monster Petition

NEW YORK.—Seven thousand suffragists, not suffragettes, will celebrate the ninetieth birthday of Julia Ward Howe May 27 by circulating petitions throughout New York and its suburbs demanding from Congress enfranchisement for women.

"There is a distinction," said Miss Mary Garrett Hay yesterday, "between the term suffragist and suffragette, and I am on a much higher plane than the other and works for higher aims. The suffragist aims to enlist women in the cause, while the suffragette is engaged in recruiting men to aid the cause of women's rights. Women can work better to attain their ends by a purely womanly campaign, and we expect to have ready by the next day of Congress next winter a petition of at least one million names demanding franchise. And we will get it. We American suffragists also true Republicans, and we present in proper form this demand for our legal rights. I don't imagine Congress will turn a deaf ear."

Miss Hay added that when Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt returns from Europe, she will have headquarters in room 22 of the Hotel Marlborough Washington with typical writers.

Women and The Civic

BOSTON.—Reports on civic activities by women's clubs to the Massachusetts legislature in session, show that each year records are being made. That watch over medical inspection of schools, promote the cure and prevention of tuberculosis, maintain visiting nurses, manage public libraries, and establish playgrounds for children are not of the past year did something to develop local interest in forestry, either through the woods or by village improvement societies. The women's club movement promises added length of life for it and even higher appreciation by the community at large.

CLYDELAND.—Collection agencies charge that the Rev. Dr. William G. Stinson, who was a member of the Moral Reform Church, made this statement yesterday morning in a sermon on "The Modern Theater as a Moral Institution." He took up the subject of improper theatrical performances and called for a crusade against sensual plays and indecent musical comedies. He said that the popular sentiment be already directed against these offerings, they would soon disappear from our theaters.

"My attitude toward the stage and the players is sympathetic, because many years ago it was a serious question with me whether I should become an actor or a preacher," he said. "When the Rev. ## Well Known Actress Who Sued at the Same Time for Divorce and Breach of Promise

MRS. JAMESON COTTING.

NEW YORK.—Announcement has just been made in this city that Jameson Cotting, wealthy and a member of many clubs, and Miss Anita Bridger, an actress, were married last Thursday in Greenwich, Conn. Mr. Cotting is a brother of Mrs. J. Egmont Schermerhorn, No. 25 West Seventy-ninth street, in whose household he has lived since the death of his first wife in 1903.

Mr. Cotting's first marriage also was a quiet affair. On June 20, 1898, he married Miss Marie Leech, a daughter of Henry S. Leech of New York and Paris. News of that marriage was not made public until several days after it took place. The first Mrs. Cotting died from scarlet fever after a three days' illness, five years after her marriage.

Miss Bridger, whom Mr. Cotting married last Thursday, was the late Joseph Bridger, of Los Angeles, Cal. While she was on the stage Miss Bridger was active in organizations of for California residents living in New York. While "A Fool and His Money" was playing in this city Miss Bridger gave what is called a California luncheon, all the viands for which were brought especially for her from her native State. She has lived in New York ten years, during which time her mother has lived with her.

Mr. Cotting is a son of the late Amos Cotting, whose residence was at No. 835 Fifth avenue. Mr. Cotting has spent much of his time abroad. It was in Paris that he first met Miss Leech, who was then in school in that city. He is a member of the Metropolitan Club, the St. Anthony, the Knickerbocker, the New York Automobile Club of America, the Tuxedo and the Larchmont Yacht Club. He was graduated from New York University in 1895.

Hats Latest Fad at the Smith College

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—The only 15 cents, and that's the reason why Smith college girls have been disporting themselves of late in an endless variety of outrageous hats from a factory in Amherst. They come untripped, but that is a matter of small importance, for Smith college girls are artists at ornamenting hats.

Some weeks ago it was noticed that a few students in their caps and gowns, as their friends know, had not been out of Northampton for weeks suddenly appeared in gorgeous new creations. And some of them had as many as ten or a dozen new hats. There was nothing like them in the Northampton market for two weeks.

The cars running between Amherst and Northampton have been daily crowded with students going to buy the 15 cent hats. It is the fad at present to have a hat for every hour of the day and each girl purchases one or two hats, to be worn on the street, takes them back to Northampton and decorates them to suit her fancy.

"I believe that in the last month," said Fred Shepherd, superintendent of the hat factory, "we have sold no fewer

Root and Flint Have Wordy War Over Tariff on Lemons

WESTERNER SAYS FARMERS IN WEST MAKE TOO MUCH

California Senator Battles for Higher Schedule Than the Dingley Bill Provides.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Senators Root and Flint today as they entered the Senate chamber, because of their having to meet on a legal holiday that most of them had usually devoted to exercise in commutation of the day. As soon as the tariff bill was taken up, consideration of the paragraph on lemons was resumed and Senator Flint proceeded to defend the amendment proposed by the commission on Finance, which increases the duty to 1 1/2 cents per pound.

Join Lemon Aid Society

Senator Root made an impassioned appeal against any increase in the duty on lemons over the Dingley law rate of 1 cent.

"I would not eliminate the lemon growers of California, or any other American industry, but it is a little too much for them to come here and ask an increase of duty when they are already making over 100 per cent."

Farmers Not Angels

Root having referred to the California Fruit Growers' Association, Flint asked if it was not an association of farmers.

"It is not an incorporation of angels," retorted Root, "and if it gets control of our market and you put up a barrier against the foreign lemon, the white-winged farmers of the California Fruit Growers' Association will yield to the temptation to get the highest price that they can for their product."

As the debate on lemons proceeded the wordy exchanges between Senators became fiercer.

"Does the Senator believe that statement," asked Flint as Root declared that foreign lemons are laid down in New York at $2.42 a box.

The New York Senator, replying that he did believe his own statement, Flint responded that in that very market the price was down to $1.15 a box, which fact Root accounted for because the fruit was sold at auction.

Watch Wordy War

As Root pounded on the higher rate on lemons, Senator Cummins left his place and going over to his colleague, Senator Dingley, the two advocates of lower rates watched the debaters with evident satisfaction.
